Bay/Pass mayors re-elected

Favre wins easily

BY BETSY GAGNET

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre will be back for his third term after a decisive victory over challengers Richard J. Fayard, Sr. and Don Dahl.

The unofficial results showed Favre with 1,686 votes, Fayard with 566 and Dahl with 72.

"Whoever said the third time's the charm could not have known how sweet it is," said a jubilant Favre after the results were announced.

Fayard said he will try again in four years.

"I appreciate the votes and support people gave me," said Fayard, who had 24 percent of the vote. "It was a nice, clean race and I'll be back in four years."

Favre said the two things he intends to concentrate on in the upcoming term are completing the capital improvements already underway throughout the city and to push for the adoption of a comprehensive development plan for the city.

As to other matters, Favre said he plans to "continue what we have been doing for the last eight years from providing fiscal responsibility and stability to the city down to making sure the people are taken care of and provided the services they deserve."

McDonald unopposed in Pass

BY ED LEPOMA

Two incumbents still face challenges in coming elections while incumbent Ward 2 Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif squeaked into a third term in Tuesday's primary elections.

Mayor Billy McDonald and two incumbent aldermen were returned to office unopposed, and a $10.1 million school bond issue passed by more than a two-to-one margin.

The unofficial tabulation showed Kalif won by a 13-vote margin over challenger Joseph B. Piernas Sr. She has no Republican challenger, so will retain her seat on the five-member Board of Aldermen.

Alderman-at-Large Gene Rogers will face a runoff election May 20 against Steven Biggs. The race among Democrats was tight with Rogers gathering 346 to 319 for Biggs. A third candidate, Edwin Macdiarmid, received 247 votes. Rogers is seeking a fourth term.

The winner of the May 20 runoff also faces Leo "Chipper" McDermott, who received 491 votes and beat out two challengers to win the Republican nomination. Charles Guidroz received 68 votes and Richard Oden, 85 votes.

Jeff Emerson, the Republican incumbent in Ward 1, was unopposed, and will begin his third consecutive term.

In Ward 3, incumbent Democrat Michael Antoine was unopposed.

Officer defends downtown site

BY ED LEPOMA

Two once-rejected downtown sites and a smaller jail are new possibilities surfacing as Hancock County supervisors wrestle with where to put a Juvenile Detention Center.

Ken Hurt, the county's chief juvenile officer, came to Monday's meeting to lash out at downtown businesses and citizens who last week got supervisors to back off getting appraisals on their land near the county jail.

Architects and the site selection committee wanted to get appraisals on the building housing Ruth's Bakery facing Court Street, the Main Street

United Methodist Church parking lot on Second Street, and three historic homes fronting on Railroad Avenue.

Hurt said he has to turn juveniles back into custody of their parents, whom they might later abuse.

"Or when they are left out, I get flack from business people

Homes for mildly retarded to be built in Waveland

BY RICHARD MEEK

A two-house complex for 20 mildly retarded individuals is being planned in Waveland.

Charles Dearman of the South Mississippi Regional Center revealed plans for the complex to the Waveland Board of Aldermen Monday night.

Dearman said two, 5,000-square-foot, five-bedroom homes will be constructed on McLaurin Street, near the corner of St. Anthony. A single main entrance will serve both houses, and the facilities will be connected by a driveway and walkway.

A chain link fence will be erected in the front of the house, and a privacy fence in the rear.

"There will be a lot of interaction between the houses," Dearman said.

Dearman said the two homes will provide 24-hour supervision to the residents and have 33 full-time employees. He said "as many as possible" citizens from Hancock County will be housed at the homes.

Dearman said Buddy Gran- tier of Jackson is the architect for the project. Once those plans are complete, the project will be put out for bid. He indicated the entire process could take several months, and that no timetable has been set for construction to begin.

The South Mississippi Regional Center serves six counties in the region. The state-funded agency has similar homes for mildly mentally retarded people in Biloxi, Gautier and Wiggins. The Waveland site will be their first in Hancock County.

Carriers soliciting food donations for charity

The National Association of Letter Carriers will be conducting its one-day nationwide food drive on Saturday. It is requested food donations be placed at your mailbox before the carrier arrives.

The food collected in Hancock County will be donated to the Hancock County Food Pantry. Carriers ask that glass or perishable items not be included.

The county's rural carriers will also participate in the food drive. They are one of the few rural carrier unions in the country to participate.

Last year, over 35,000 pounds of food was collected and distributed in Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone counties.

The food drive is planned when the shelves of community food banks are traditionally at their lowest. These donations help carry the agencies through summer until the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

Jimmy Clark is the coordinator of the Hancock County effort, and Claudia Murphy is assistant coordinator.

Scianna out, Fave awaits late as Council battle produce upsets

BY BETSY GAGNET
One incumbent is definitely out and another is waiting to find out his fate after the unofficial results were announced in the Bay St. Louis City Council race Tuesday night.

Carleen Murphy Moran defeated two-term incumbent Charles C. Scianna in the Ward 1 election. Four years ago, Scianna defeated in the same race.

In Ward 3, incumbent Tom Fave finished third with only 16 votes separating the top three finishers.

Incumbents James C. Thrifflay, Ward 2, and Tad Black, Ward 4, will return for another term.

Councilman-at-large Jimmy Rutherford ran unopposed and will return for another term.

In the Ward 1 race, Moran won handily, outpolling Scianna 402-236. Four years ago, Scianna won by 123 votes.

Moran said she was at home when she received the election results.

"I'm real pleased and excited," Moran said. "I was hoping it would be close, but I have to say I was surprised."

She said she is looking forward to the next four years.

"I'm anxious to get in there and work with the present administration and city employees," Moran said. "I'm looking forward to bringing back to the community some of the things my family and friends have gotten from when I was in office."

Scianna said he was glad to have served on the council and was happy that his constituents accomplished what they set out to do.

"I enjoyed the challenge of being a councilman for almost nine years and working with the mayor and other councilmen," Scianna said. "We've seen many good projects materialize and many more are in the planning stages that will develop in the next several years."

"I will continue to be interested in local government and thank all the people who have given me their support."

In the Ward 2 race, with 24 affidavit votes still to be counted, it has not been determined which candidates will appear in the May 20 runoff.

Charles Edward Johnson was the top finisher with 149 votes, followed by Connie Payne Lamplsey with 137 and incumbent Tom Fave with 133 votes. Willie C. Acker captured 60 votes.

The affidavit votes will be reviewed by election officials today at 1 p.m. to determine which ones are valid and then results of the race will be announced.

The winner of the runoff will face Independent candidate Thomas P. Clark in the general election on June 3.

In the Ward 2 race, Thrifflay captured 317 votes to beat out opponents Bob Travers with 117 votes and Linda Lala Ham signed with 52 votes. Thrifflay had defeated Beauregard four years ago.

Thrifflay said he had a much better idea of the expertise in running his campaign.

He said the victory demonstrated the confidence and goodwill of the people in Ward 2.

"Most people know if they need help I will stand up for them in their time of need," Thrifflay said. "They enjoy seeing someone across the table from them that knows them and their families and someone they know they can trust and count on."

Thrifflay, who will enter his sixth term as councilman, said

Fema flood insurance commercials target hurricane-prone states

With hurricane season—beginning June 1—predicted by some experts to be worse than usual this year, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has launched special radio and television spots urging residents to purchase flood insurance while there is still time.

Television commercials featuring FEMA Director James Lee Witt will air during the weeks of May 5, May 19 and June 2 on stations in selected markets in southeastern and northeastern states and spot markets in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Radio commercials for live reading by local announcers will be broadcast in the same markets during the weeks of May 12, May 19 and May 26.

The messages alert people to the importance of having flood insurance and remind them that there is a 30-day waiting period before a new policy becomes effective, so they should contact their insurance agent and purchase coverage without delay.

FEMA also produced two other versions of the Witt television commercial—one that aired in states subject to flooding from spring snow-melt, and one for use in imminent flooding situations.

The flood insurance commercials are in line with the FEMA director's emphasis on disaster mitigation: encouraging Americans to take steps ahead of time to reduce disaster losses.

Although the message is not a part of the current radio/TV commercials, FEMA officials stress that 30 percent of flood insurance claims are for losses that occur outside identified floodplains or floodhazard areas.

The National Flood Insurance Program, administered by FEMA, makes federally backed flood insurance available in communities that adopt and enforce floodplain management regulations to reduce future flood damage.

Currently there are nearly 3.6 million flood insurance policies in force nationwide, representing more than $382 billion worth of coverage.

Homeowners, renters and business owners can find out more about flood insurance by contacting their local insurance agent or by calling FEMA's toll-free flood insurance information hotline at 1-800-427-4661.

Black said he expects to keep things moving.

"I'm looking forward to progress in the next four years," Black said. "There are a lot of things this administration started that I plan to carry out."

In other matters:

Alderman Tommy Longo proposed the board consider putting together a comprehensive drainage plan for the city. He said the last one on file is from 1983, and "it's useless."

He said houses have been built over or on sites where the map shows natural drains are located.

"It's a problem," he said.

Longo suggested the city pay engineers to put together a comprehensive drainage plan, one ward at a time.

Public Utilities Director Steve Landry estimated the engineering cost to be between $5,000-10,000 per ward. City attorney Ronnie Artigues said some of the $1.25 million bond money designated for drainage and sewage line improvements could be used for the study.

Alderman Jay Fleuret expressed some concern about spending bond money for such a study, but he was quickly cut off by a terse Longo, who told him, "If you want to discuss drainage for the entire city, let's talk about it."

Landry was instructed to begin investigating the costs for the study of one ward.

The burned out bed and breakfast on Nicholson Avenue, a Waveland eyesore for over two years, may soon be demolished. Longo reported that the Environmental Protection Agency had given the city the nod to remove the asbestos from the building.

A private citizen recently approached city officials about demolishing the building, with the caveat that he would be able to keep the lumber. He said he would also remove the asbestos, although there was some confusion among the aldermen about what he would charge the city.

Fleuret insisted the man said the costs would be $3,400, although the other aldermen were not sure of that figure. Landry has been instructed to contact the individual for a final charge.

Waveland city officials declared yesterday as Billy Breland Day in Waveland. Breland was a long-time bank official with Merchants Bank, which was recently bought out by the Whitney Bank.

The resolution praised Breland for "over 25 years of financial services and assistance to the City of Waveland," and that without his "guidance and assistance the City of Waveland could not have made the achievements present today."

Many of Breland's bank employees were on hand for the presentation.

What happens when our children meet their future?

Today we wipe away their tears and smile at their imperfections. Tomorrow they'll face a greater challenge in the world of business. The actions we take now will determine how they meet that future.

On Tuesday, May 13, citizens of Bay St. Louis and Waveland will be asked to vote for a bond issue to support their school district. From the proposed $9 million, approximately $6.5 million will be used to construct a new middle school (grades 6-8). The remaining funds (approximately $2.5 million) will be used to repair, upgrade, and equip Bay High School, Bay Middle School (which will be converted to an upper elementary serving grades 4-5), North Bay Elementary, and Waveland Elementary. These funds will provide the space required for the implementation of new educational programs and will affect every child in the district.

Go to the polls on May 13 and cast your vote for the future of our community.

JUST SAY YES

on Tuesday, May 13, declared Education Day in Hancock County.

For our children and for our future, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce proudly supports the School Bond issues for both the Bay St. Louis/Waveland Schools and Hancock County Schools. Both school districts currently rank in the top 25% in the state and both are performing at or above the national average. We must update our existing schools and create new, innovative schools in order to support the positive economic development Hancock County will continue to experience.

Our children's future depends on it.

He said the selection committee "worked its butt off" before recommending the latest site for the juvenile detention center.

Hurt warned the county faces a major lawsuit if some juvenile being detained is hurt or if a juvenile turned loose commits a major crime.

"This problem has got to be addressed as quickly as possible," said Hurt.

Hurt said maybe the county should forget about housing juvenile detainees for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, and build a smaller jail for use solely for Hancock County youths. He said the suggestion was made because revenues from keeping those prisoners would pay for the operation of the facility, and the county and taxpayers would not have to fund it.

"Maybe we should go back to the original options," said Hurt. He estimated conversion of the post office might take $300,000 and the jail may cost $400,000 to renovate, or it could be torn down and a new structure built.

Councilman Thomas (Tom) Farve, left, discusses the details outlining Casino Magic's AYSE (Assisting Youth with Summer Employment) program in a recent meeting with Casino Magic Bay St. Louis general manager Joe Billhimer. Casino Magic to sponsor youth employment program

Casino Magic Bay St. Louis general manager Joe Billhimer announced it's not too soon for Hancock County youth or businesses to start thinking about summer employment. The casino's AYSE (Assisting Youth with Summer Employment) program kicks off for Hancock County Businesses and students June 9.

Casino Magic's AYSE program is a 10-week summer youth work program providing incentives for Hancock County businesses to hire and train students selected to participate. Students and businesses each fill out applications for the program. When possible, students are matched to jobs with their interests in mind.

"The program provides job opportunities for students in the local community and promotes on-the-job training," said Billhimer.

AYSE is open to all full-time juniors and seniors in the Hancock County school system. Students work 40 hours a week. Casino Magic will pay half of minimum wage and ask the businesses that participate to pay a minimum of $5 an hour. The program can accommodate up to 16 students and businesses.

Job opportunities for students may range from medical and recreational fields to the tourism industry. Local businesses interested in becoming partners and students interested in participating should contact Casino Magic's Community Relations Department at 467-9257, ext. 8053 for applications.

Advertising group wins award

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Advertising Federation recently won three awards in the 1995-97 Club Achievement Competition at the 11th District Annual Advertising Federation Convention in Huntsville, Ala.

The local organization won first place in regional club management, second place in public service and volunteerism and third place in education.

There are three divisions in the competition, classed by an organization's size. The Mississippi Gulf Coast Advertising Federation competed against organizations in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee with 100 to 249 members.

"We have worked hard to strengthen our organizational structure and to be more for the community. It's a great honor to have our efforts recognized in the competition," said Allen Jenkins, president of the organization.

At the same event, local American Advertising Award winner, Ship Island Holding Company, won a citation of excellence award for a Coast Magazine cover.

This was the first year that the local organization entered the club competition. Jenkins attributes the organization's success to the volunteer board and dedicated members.

Membership in the Mississippi Gulf Coast Advertising Federation ranges from producers of advertising, local businesses who buy advertising, public relations and marketing professionals and members of the media.

Ad Fed meets the first Thursday of each month at the College Holiday Inn. Each meeting features a speaker on topics of interest to the general membership in marketing and advertising. For membership information, call Scott Brady, membership chairman, at 374-8040.

posed for a second term, and automatically retains his seat.

The June 20 general election is also expected to turn into a heated race in Ward 4 between incumbent Republican Yvonne (Vonnice) Bodenschatz and Democratic challenger Arthur Balch.

Four year ago, Bodenschatz won her initial term by a 36-vote margin over Balch.

The bond issue for schools was approved overwhelmingly even though an estimated 30 percent of registered voters actually turned out for Tuesday's elections.

The official count shows 1,619 or 69 percent voted for school improvements and 737 or 31 percent voted against the issue. It passed in all voting precincts.

School Supt. Philip Terrell says he will use $7 million to build a new high school and convert the old one into a middle school. He also plans to renovate the district's two grade schools, and build a cafeteria at Pass Christian Elementary, and to construct a gymnasium or multi-purpose building at DeLisle Elementary.

The last bond issue for schools was approved by voters in 1985. The school improvements will be financed by a property tax hike that will see owners of a $50,000 home pay about $52 more a year, according to Terrell.

A relaxed and exuberant Mayor McDonald was at City Hall Tuesday night when votes were being tabulated.

Unlike the Most Valuable Player in the Superbowl, McDonald said he was not going to Disneyworld to celebrate, but he does plan to thank his supporters.

"I'm planning the first-ever Mayor's picnic at War Memorial Park sometime in June," said McDonald. "The whole city will be invited."

He credited the city's work force as the main reason he drew no opposition for reelection to his first full term.

"I've put together a cohesive group of city employees from public works, to the police and fire departments to City Hall," said McDonald.

"Without their help and support, I would not have run uncontested."

McDonald says there's two ways to run for election: "Scared and unopposed."

"I like unopposed better," he said.

Dear Patients and Friends:
Headaches are common ailments affecting many individuals every day of their lives. Professional help is seldom sought for headaches, although millions of Americans spend countless dollars on headache remedies, even though usually they get little or no relief from them. And the headache usually keeps occurring.
Chiropractors believe that drugs do not cure and do not prevent headaches. Although they may relieve pain, they certainly do not remove the cause of the pain, and may even bring about undesirable side effects. A headache may be considered as a sign that something is wrong within the body; the pain is a warning signal. But taking something like a painkiller to disguise the pain would be like disconnecting the oil light in your car whenever it flashes.
The body is controlled and regulated through the nervous system and, if a spinal nerve is pinched or blocked, the body will become diseased or malfunction. A headache, for example, could be the result of a situation like this. When one or more of the tiny positions, headache troubles may result.
When you are in pain and in doubt as to its cause, contact your Doctor of Chiropractic. Find out what's causing those headaches and, instead of covering up the pain, try for a cure!

HANCOCK SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

ELECTION DATE - MAY 13, 1997

2nd fastest growing district in the state

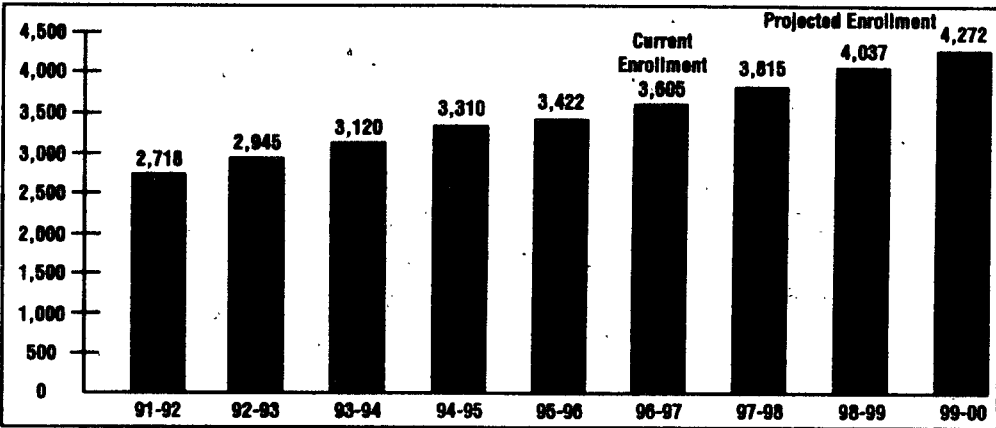

Facilities and Technology Proposals

- Hancock County Schools have enrolled over 1000 new students since 1990.
- Projected growth estimates another 1000 new students over the next five years.
- By 2000 there will be over 1800 students in a Jr./Sr. high school built for 1500.
- By 2000 there will be approximately 1500 students at Hancock Elementary.
- The proposed facilities are projected to provide for future growth.
- The proposal provides a well planned program for the technology needs of our students and schools for the 21st century.

The Proposal for Facilities and Technology will cost the owner of a $50,000 home approximately $58.50 per year - less than .17 cents per day. The cost to an owner of a $100,000 home approximately $117.00 per year - less than .33 cents per day. For timberland owners, for 40 acres, the cost is .38 cents per acre, or $14.18. For 40 acres of pastureland, the cost is .22 cents per acre, or $8.78. For marshland owners, for 40 acres, the cost is .04 cents per acre or $1.60. Residents age 65 and older are exempt if their homestead is $60,000 or less. Also for senior citizens, if your home is worth $100,000, you are only taxed for $40,000 - which is $46.80 per year. For an $80,000 home, you are taxed on only $20,000 - which is $23.40 per year.
